

Cub Scout Position Training

This Fall is a great time to get trained for your position or refresh your skills. Being a trained leader means that you are current with your Youth Protection (needs to be completed every two years) and have taken a position training based on your position in the Pack; Cubmaster/Assistant Cubmaster, Den Leader or Pack Committee member/parent. If you have never completed trainings for these online or a training in person for your position, you are not trained.

Parents and new Leaders who are not currently trained for their position should be attending these trainings. Cub Scout Position Training is essential and therefore required for all registered Leaders. These trainings provide specific position training and allow for Q&A geared to help all leaders and parents understand how to create a successful experience for their Scouts. These sessions will demonstrate how a Den & Pack meeting should operate and what your Scouts should be doing to succeed. This is a great opportunity for existing Pack Leadership to refresh their skills as well.

Cub Scout Position Trainings will be held September to October throughout the Council during the week and weekends. The training is up to 3 hours long and the cost is Free! Choose from 17 available dates. Specific locations and times are on the reverse. Please complete the registration form so adequate materials are available for each training.
